GEORGIA PIPPIN FAST WITH DUKES

Pulling's Shoulder Knocked Out of Place in Gentleman's Lunch Time Bout.

Emulating the standards set by Jim Jeffries and Jack Johnson, George R. Pulling, of 261 Temple Street, and an accredited featherweight "champion" of Atlanta, Ga., engaged in a bout during lunch hour at the I. H. Jenkins bookbindery, Broad and Allison Streets, and the featherweight knocked Pulling's shoulder out of place with a terrific right hander.

All the employees hastily swallowed their lunches so as to have time to witness the bout. Pulling is said to be a master hand with the gloves, and his admirers promised something good when he should face the visitor.

The gloves were donned, and the two lightweights went at it like true sportsmen, the fight being under the Marquis of Queensberry rules, as if it were a real go. The fight lasted four rounds. At the end of the fourth, the visitor sent in a terrific right to the body, and caught the Richmonder on the shoulder. Pulling didn't fall, but he leaned heavily on the arms of his companions—there were no ropes to lean on, as Jeffries had—and they found that his shoulder had been knocked out of place.

A call was sent in to the City Hospital, and Dr. Collins responded. He had great difficulty in putting the shoulder blade into place. Pulling will neither box nor work for the next few days. The visitor did not exit in his triumph. Indeed, he was rather sorry for his opponent.

It was but a gentleman's match, and there were no stakes. They fought for honor and glory.

Local featherweights will be glad to hear the name of the visitor, so that they may send him a challenge.

MAN'S SIZE DRINK

Woman Drank Three Pints, Then Other Things; Nearly Dead.

Emma Edwards, a white woman, living at 2000 East Main Street, after she had emptied three pints of whiskey, a half pint of Jamaica ginger and a half bottle of Squibb's mixture, she was drunk, very drunk.

After having imbibed so freely, the woman happened into a state of unconsciousness, and some kind neighbor telephoned for the ambulance late in the afternoon, and Dr. Collins went to the scene of action. He found her in a terrible condition, and at once took her to the City Hospital, where he worked on her an hour and a half before feeling assured that she would recover. During the operation it required the strong arms of several attendants to hold her in bed.

PAWBROKER HELPS CATCH NEGRO THIEF, WHO ESCAPED

Becoming suspicious of a negro who entered his place to pawn a handsome suit of clothes, Nathan Cohen, of No. 4 West Broad Street, yesterday afternoon telephoned to Captain McMahon to come up at once. But before the officers arrived the negro also had become suspicious and he vanished. Mr. Cohen tried to hold him, but when the negro saw Captain McMahon coming he knew there would be something doing in the sweet by-and-by, and went out Brook Avenue like a streak of lightning. But the suit was recovered, and was taken to headquarters for identification.

BOARD OPPOSED TO CLOSING DOCK

Aldermen Instruct City Attorney to Resist Petition of Trigg Bondholders.

MANY MEASURES ADOPTED

Money Appropriation for Sewer Building and Extension.

The Board of Aldermen last night concurred with the Common Council in the adoption of a resolution authorizing the City Attorney to appear before the Corporation Commission and oppose the closing of the city dock.

The Corporation Commission was to have heard all parties interested in the matter to-day, but the matter has been postponed until September. Bondholders of the Trigg Shipyard Company have petitioned the commission to close the dock, but business interests of the city have entered vigorous opposition.

An ordinance, which has been on the table since December, was taken up and passed. It prohibits the distributing of advertising matter and samples of patent medicines in the city. It provides that no person or firm shall place circulars or other advertising matter in the streets, in yards or on porches or in the backways of residences or other buildings. Violation of the law is punishable by a fine of from $2 to $10.

Money for Sewers.

An ordinance appropriating $16,000 for laying sewers on Seventeenth and Nineteenth Streets, and for the Common Council, was concurred in, as was an appropriation of $3,600 for laying sewers between Monument and Park Avenues, north and south, in cross alleys.

The Board concurred with the Common Council in the adoption of an ordinance increasing the salary of the City Accountant from $1,800 to $2,200 a year.

Other measures which were adopted on concurrence were:

An ordinance providing for an appropriation of $15,000 for the building of a schoolhouse at Pine and China Streets.

An ordinance providing for an appropriation of $14,000 to build a fire station in Washington Ward.

An ordinance providing for an expenditure of $15,000 in Washington Ward for improvement of streets and roadbeds.

An ordinance authorizing the expenditure of $10,087.95 for schools in Washington Ward.

Resolution appropriating $2,052.08 to pay the salary for the fiscal year of the judge of the Hustings Court, Part 2.

Bids for the annex to Chalmers School building were authorized, the contract not to exceed $22,000.

COURT SHOWS MERCY

Female Billiard Tiger, Who Is Seriously Ill, Escapes Jail Term.

Annie Summers, colored, who was arrested Sunday morning on a charge of selling liquor without a license at 2109 East Franklin Street, was put under $100 bond for twelve months in the City Jail, but the judge, in view of the leniency of the court, which she has now been twice on the same charge.

It is because of her crippled condition that she was not sent to jail. She is weak from consumption and rheumatism and her friends had to lift her bodily in the patrol wagon when she was arrested, and she had to be carried into court yesterday morning.

When she was up before she was sent to the City Almshouse, where she could be cured for. But she tired of her monotonous surroundings, and she hearkened to the call of illicit traffic in intoxicants. She can not be sent to jail in her condition, for incarceration would mean an early death, and her promise to give up the illegal traffic, Justice Crutcher exacted of her only the bond. If she sells liquor again without a license she will be sent to jail.

The case against Phoebe Land, colored, also charged with selling liquor without a license, was continued to August 2. She was called for her appearance on that date in the sum of $500.

SHIFTING MOON QUEERS HAROLD'S LITTLE ROMANCE

Cavorts Like Runaway Aeroplane and Never Seems to Rise in Same Old Place—Professor Hall Explains Why.

Dozens of lovers have appealed to the Park Commissioners to have the moon put back in place. Luna has gone cavorting through the ambient like a runaway aeroplane. Things, generally, are disturbed.

Harold and Mame sat in the park last night waiting and watching for the same old moon to rise in the same old way with the same old flood of many eighteen-dollars-a-week marriages. The moon rose all right, but not according to schedule. It was in a new place—way away from where it had been the night before.

There sat Harold and there sat Mame. He had been waiting for the psychological moment when the moon should make its appearance above the horizon and flood all the world with its silvery luster. Suddenly he leaned forward, his eyes fixed on the moon, and he said: "Dost love me?"

"Dost love me?" he inquired, and his hand tilted upward Mame's dimpled chin.

"Aw, cut it," said Mame, and she shoved him away; "there's nothing to it."

STATE TO CONTROL NEW RIFLE RANGE

War Department to Have No Right to Send Negro Troops There.

$50,000 WILL BE SPENT

Casey Plans Not Approved—Good Pay Ordered for Riflemen.

Fifty thousand dollars will be expended in improving and equipping the State camp site and rifle range near Virginia Beach. A decision to this effect was reached at the meeting of the Military Board, held at the Governor's office last night.

Of this large sum $35,000 comes from the United States government, having been set aside for this purpose out of the State's quota from the War Department. For the remainder, it is proposed to use the $15,000 appropriated by the Legislature for the purpose of a rifle range. There is some doubt if this sum is available for improving a range, and if it is found that the appropriation cannot be so applied, the next general assembly will have to provide for it.

The board turned down both of the plans proposed by Captain K. K. V. Casey, an expert engineer who recently made a survey of the property. Instead of firing due east, as suggested by him, the shooting will be from a point somewhat to the south, the bullets to go in a northeasterly direction. Captain Casey's objection to this idea was that it might involve danger to parties on or near the beach.

Will Build Backstop.

Although the State has the right, in the deed which will soon be delivered, to shoot over the land between the camp site and the ocean, it is planned to eliminate all danger by adding to the sand dune at which the targets will be placed. This sand pile is already about thirty feet high.

The board's idea is to build a rough sort of structure on top with logs and to pour sand into this, making the whole affair perhaps sixty-five feet in height. It is argued that any such structure will be blown down by the wind, and it is proposed to pursue their way across the ocean, and if they hit anybody it will be in Spain or Portugal.

J. A. C. Groner, assistant to the general manager of the Norfolk-Southern Railroad, and Captain Philip Yeatman, of the Industrial Commission of Norfolk, appeared before the board at its request. The representative of the railroad wanted to see the State spend some money in improvements before it in its turn invested $20,000 in building the spur track into the camp.

In the meantime, the State Military Board wanted some assurance that the railroad should extend the spur track into the camp and watch the State spend the money.

Negroes Need Not Apply.

By this method of procedure the camp ground and rifle range will be the sole property of Virginia, and the War Department will have no rights in it. "Of course," said the Governor, with a twinkle in his eye, "we will let the United States use the ground at times under proper restrictions. He did not elaborate, but it was a safe bet that as long as he is in the executive chair no negro soldiers will have the pleasure of firing at Virginia's targets or of crossing sentry posts and threatening Virginia officers.

Neither the board nor the Norfolk people liked the idea advanced by Captain Casey that the State acquire the ground lying between the camp site and the ocean. This would, it is pointed out, rob property owners to the south, some of whom have been liberal contributors to the fund for presentation of the property to the State, of their right of way to Virginia Beach.

Members of the board present last night were Governor Mann, Adjutant-General Mann, Secretary of Commerce, wealth James and Brigadier-General C. C. Vaughan, Jr. Joseph LeMasurier, clerk to the board, was also on hand.

Term to Have Medal.

It was decided that the board should purchase bronze medals for each member of the rifle team at Camp Perry. The design is to be selected by the Adjutant-General.

The Governor's medal, the Adjutant-General's medal and the Military Board's medal, given in recent years to the three men making the best showing at the national rifle matches, will be suspended until such time as the State is in position to have a more general contest, to be participated in by men from all over Virginia. This means that these medals will not be presented this year.

General Vaughan, with the three commanders of the Virginia Infantry regiments—Colonel Perry, Colonel Leedy and Colonel Nottingham—were detailed to attend the rifle match at Camp Perry as observers.

It was decided that the enlisted men who make the team at Camp Perry shall be paid the regular State pay, in addition to the allowance from the United States. That means that the privates will receive $1.50 per day, corporals $1.95, and sergeants $2.30. Officers will get only United States pay.

ROBBED WOMAN'S EXCHANGE

Inexperienced Burglar Breaks In Over Exchange for Little Money.

An inexperienced burglar broke into the Richmond Exchange for Women's Wear, 300 East Franklin Street, some time between Sunday morning and yesterday morning, and robbed the cash, stamps and street car tickets to the amount of $25. The robbery was discovered yesterday morning, and was immediately reported to the police.

The burglar gained an entrance through a window in the rear of the exchange from a hallway, the door of which is never fastened, the burglar being reached by means of a ladder.

The rooms were thoroughly rifled, but nothing except the money, stamps and street car tickets found in the desk of Miss Ellen B. Wolsinger was taken. An iron safe containing several hundred dollars stands near the desk, and it appeared to have been untouched.

RICHMOND FIRMS WON'T PRESS CASE

New York Prodigal, Turned Out by Father, Surrenders to Police.

GOT CLOTHES AND JEWELRY

Smeaton, Whose Swath Is Well Remembered Here, Not Likely to Face Prison.

Returning home like the prodigal son, with fond anticipations of the fatted calf, Robert Smeaton, Jr., twenty-nine years old, was, yesterday, turned out by his father in Brooklyn, N. Y., according to advices received here last night, and then, having lost faith in the heyday of youth, he went to the New York police and surrendered on the charges of stealing a tailoring firm in Richmond of $52 and a jewelry firm of a gold watch.

But the stern parent was not entirely unrelenting, for he supplied the erring youth with a "suit" in other words, 75 cents, and told him to "beat it." Robert beat it, and went to Adams Street Station, in New York, and delivered himself up to the authorities. He also wrote to Major Werner, telling the latter that he had committed the crimes with which he was charged, and saying that he was willing to come back to Richmond.

Firms Won't Prosecute.

But neither of the firms against which he had signed an agreement yesterday to press the charges, and if they continue in the same frame of mind to-day, a telegram will be sent to the New York police, telling them that Richmond does not want the prodigal son.

Smeaton keeps a haberdashery at 315 Fulton Street, Brooklyn, and when he reached the family home at 25 Pierpont Street Sunday, the elder Smeaton told him to go to bed. This gave the youth confidence, but when he arose yesterday the father handed him the six "bits" and told him to "beat it" for himself. The boy was so disgusted at the unexpected ending of his hopes that he surrendered, confessing the Richmond thefts.

It is believed here that Smeaton is a little unsteady mentally, for much surprise was expressed that he should give himself up and face a heavy sentence. It is hardly probable that he will be sent for, as there are no charges against him in New York. It is expected that he will be released to-day.

BLAMES RAILROAD

Soldiers Held Up to Allow Freight Train to Go Ahead.

Captain Charles M. East, acting adjutant of the First Virginia, has directed Major L. T. Price, of the First Battalion, by orders of Colonel W. J. Perry, to report the time of departure and arrival of his command to and from Petersburg, with the blame for delays.

In his reply Major Price calls attention to the bad service given by the Western Maryland Railway. One of these was at Hanover, Pa., to secure ice and water for the men in one of the cars, and a long wait at a local passenger train and a freight train to pass ahead of the soldiers.

The service given by the Pennsylvania was good, according to the report, as also was that of the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac, except that the delay in getting a horse belonging to Major King's battalion headquarters at Alexandria, caused by the failure of the road to have a switching engine on the job.

TO TEST LIQUOR

Government to Ascertain if Product Sold Come Up to Standard.

Samples of the whiskey seized by Internal Revenue inspectors are now being sent to the government chemist at Washington to be tested. Should the analysis show the contents of the revenue officers to be true some action may be taken to bring the distillers to account.

Often the reason whiskey does not show the same proof as stipulated on the barrels is because of natural causes. If whiskey has been stored in a dry place for a long time it is quite possible that the evaporation will change the original proof. The same is true if the whiskey is kept in a damp place. The revenue officers can only ascertain whether there are violations of the law by the whiskey being tested.

Civil Service Examination.

An examination for plasterer and paper machie worker will be held in Richmond on August 17, to fill vacancies in the National Academy of Music. The salary is $100 per month. Applicants must be at least twenty years old. Men only will be allowed to try for the job.

Charged With Theft.

Daniel Taylor, colored, was arrested yesterday on a charge of stealing $5 from A. C. Worsham.

NO SUFFERING HERE WHILE OTHER CITIES SWELTER

True, the Mercury Climbs a Bit, but Cool Breeze Sweeps Up and Along and Makes Life Endurable for Stay-at-Homes.

Furnishing yet another illustration of how fortunate is Richmond when compared to most other cities, is the fact that the Sunday and yesterday being recorded as the hottest days of the year all over the country, the temperature here has been delightful.

With Washington sweltering with the great heat of the tropics, New York with prostrations and deaths by the score, Cincinnati the hottest place in the whole country, Richmond has been blessed with heaven-sent weather, which contrasts strangely with that which most other places are, and have been, experiencing. Take Atlanta, for instance. With the temperature it has it must resemble a veritable inferno. How the people live through the manage to survive seems remarkable.

Contrary to conditions prevailing elsewhere, Sunday in Richmond was not as hot by five degrees as several preceding Sundays had been. It was by no means the hottest day of the summer. And even when Richmond did have its record temperature it was not as hot as other places, and the whole secret of the cooling breezes which seem to make their headquarters in Richmonders Appeal From Decision in Law and Equity Court.

Prisoner Believed to Have Been Member of Gang Which Operated in Virginia.

Upon top of the indictment returned against him by the grand jury of Orange county, Martin Jacoby, with the aliases of Martin Jacoby, W. Franklin, W. Freedman and William Martin—enough aliases almost to cast a sufficient cloud of suspicion over the man—was yesterday indicted by the grand jury of Richmond on a charge of stealing trunks containing clothing valued at $1,164 from the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company. The indictment contains four counts.

Jacoby is alleged to have been a member of a gang of trunk thieves who annually stole thousands of dollars worth of trunks by switching checks at railroad stations throughout the country. Their principal operations in Virginia occurred at Gordonsville and Richmond in 1907. One of the men was caught in Richmond. The leader escaped, but after a world-wide search he was located in London and was brought back to this country by Detective-Sergeants Bailey and Wren. He was convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary. His name was Miller, and he, too, had many aliases. The others caught and convicted were Alexander Driscoll, who also served terms in the penitentiary, and George V. Thomas, who is alleged to have been one of the gang, is also under indictment in Orange county. He is expected to give evidence for the State, but Jacoby will fight the case to a finish.

Claim Agent L. L. Scherer, of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company, who first got on the men's trail, is the principal witness against them.

Many Other Indictments.

The grand jury also returned ten other indictments of a criminal nature. They are as follows: Clarence Bradshaw, malicious wounding; Junius Booker, malicious wounding; Nelson Cook, housebreaking; John B. Carter, murder; Joseph Ford, malicious wounding; Raymond Green and William Smith, burglary; Harrison Hall, malicious wounding; Voss Nash, malicious wounding; and Samuel Owens, burglary (two).

But the grand jury's work was not finished, for that body then proceeded to investigate charges against business, and professional men, who are alleged to have been in the same gang. The list includes almost every known business and profession, and there were about 150 indictments returned. Payment of licenses is due on May 1, but grace is allowed until July 1, and then it is up to the grand jury. Many men appeared yesterday and paid up.

Against Thomas Payne, colored, suspected of having attempted to burn the homes of Anderson Kelly and Mary Harris, in Jackson Ward, no true bills were returned. John S. Bowman, suspected of housebreaking, and George Wood, charged with malicious wounding, also escaped indictment.

KEPT AMBULANCE BUSY

John Woodson Receives Hooks Instead of Block of Ice.

Dr. Collins of the city ambulancc corps yesterday received enough calls to keep him busy most of the day. He sewed up John Woodson, colored, the fellow who was thrown from the block of ice when Woodson fell in the way and received the sharp prongs in his body.

Then the old child of J. L. Rhodes fell from a tricycle and broke an arm, which Dr. Collins set.

Then the physician was called to attend Howard King, of 510 South Pine Street, who had his hand mashed in machinery at the Capital Printing Company. There were many other minor calls.

Want Wallace Brinn.

The police authorities here yesterday received a letter asking them to aid in the search for Wallace Brinn, fifteen years old, who ran away from home in Chester, Pa.

Frank Brinn, the father, of 220 West Fifth Street, Chester, writes that the boy has dark brown hair and eyes and is five feet five inches tall.
